Description:

Zaun's Bushberry Railings are a stylish variant to Zaun's vertical bar railing system. By adding a mid-rail, we are able to reduce the number of vertical bars to the upper section of the panel, creating a striking feature.

It provides a strong and fashionable solution to property demarcation and is often installed in residential settings, on housing estates or around commercial properties. Swing gates to match the railings can also be manufactured to the width you require.
